Bindu Bharti receiving an honor from the Chief Guests at the Galway Shankhnaad event held in Patna on June 5th.

Azamgarh, Uttar Pradesh. Her journey demonstrates that when one's resolve is strong, even a lack of resources can become stepping stones to success. In this new edition of 'Distributor of the Month,' let us meet a Galwian whose life story is nothing short of an extraordinary tale of courage and determination.

Poverty vs Dreams and a Brother's Faith

Reflecting on her early life, Bindu recalls a childhood marked by financial struggle. Her father earned a mere ten thousand rupees in Kolkata, an income that had to sustain a family of five. The situation was such that her mother often had to borrow money just to pay the children's school fees. According to Bindu, even festivals brought compromises rather than joy.

Her mother would often say, "Either eat a special meal today or be prepared to go hungry for the next four days." Buying new clothes was out of the question; weddings and festivals would pass with them wearing the same old outfits year after year. Hoping to change her family's circumstances, she completed her BA and enrolled in a B.Ed. program with the dream of becoming a teacher; however, that dream, too, was crushed under the weight of financial hardship, as she lacked the funds to pay the fees.

Then, one day, her younger brother Santosh Bharti became the catalyst for a major life change. It was he who told Bindu about 'Galway' and took her to a seminar held in Prayagraj. Although Bindu did not fully grasp the intricacies of the business at the time, she had complete faith in her brother. She reasoned that since she had nothing left to lose, why not give this new opportunity a chance? That marked the beginning of a new chapter in her life.

Believing on Dreams

There was no money at home to start the business. That was when her mother did something that still moves Bindu to tears when she recalls it. Her mother borrowed some funds for her dreams. In a short span of time, she gifted her mother a new set of jewelry worth 2.5 lakh. This was not merely jewelry; it was a daughter's tribute to her mother's sacrifice.

Society raised questions & family turned against

As the journey began with her mother's sacrifice, society started strewing the path with the thorns of rejection. Not everyone approved of a village girl stepping out of her home to conduct business among hundreds of people. People questioned her character; some even claimed that girls were not cut out for such work. Moreover, at the behest of relatives, her family stopped speaking to Bindu and her brother for about six to seven months. They were given a clear ultimatum: choose either the company or the family. Yet, Bindu believed in her dreams. She realized that giving up then would mean a lifetime of regret. She says she was confident that, one day, her success would be her answer. And indeed, today, those very people take pride in her success.

A journey from 1,600 to crores

Bindu's first cheque from Galway was for just 1,600, yet she viewed that modest sum as the starting point of her journey toward her goal. Gradually, her training and hard work began to pay off. She earned incentives amounting to 70,000 and today, both she and her husband earn a monthly income running into lakhs of rupees. Using her earnings from Galway, Bindu spent 17 lakhs each on her sister's wedding, her own wedding and her brother's wedding, a total expenditure of 51 lakhs. She reflects that while celebrating festivals used to be a struggle, she now has the means to fulfill every dream her family has. With a smile, Bindu says that this 11-year journey feels as rewarding as reaping the fruits of eleven lifetimes. Her family once lived in a small, two-room house; today, she has built a magnificent nine-room home for her mother in the village. She purchased a plot in Kanpur for 45 lakhs and constructed a grand house worth 65 lakhs at her in-laws' place. Now, she dreams of buying land in Jharkhand and Sasaram as well. There was a time when her household did not even own a bicycle; today, she owns multiple vehicles, including a Kwid car and motorcycles like the Jawa, Pulsar, Gixxer, Avenger and Jupiter. Furthermore, she gifted her in-laws a new tractor worth 7 lakhs for their farming operations.

Galway Becomes a Family Business

Galway brought Bindu not only wealth and fame but also a life partner.

It was through this business that she met Pramod Singh Rajput and the two entered into a love marriage. Today, both are successful Galwians. Bindu believes that success renders any form of discrimination insignificant. She has now transformed Galway into a family business; her brother Santosh Bharti, sister Preeti Bharti and husband Pramod Singh Rajput are all part of the venture. She regards Galway as the greatest teacher of her life. Today, young women from villages draw inspiration from her. Bindu's success has shifted the mindset of the entire region; many girls from her village and the surrounding areas are joining this business and becoming financially self-reliant.

After this magnificent 11-year journey, her vision board now holds dreams that are set to shape her new identity in the coming years. She aims to purchase her dream car, a Kia worth approximately 17 lakhs by her upcoming anniversary. Alongside this, she is preparing to buy land worth around 50 lakhs. Her journey toward becoming a GDD is also ongoing. As Bindu puts it,

"I have witnessed poverty and struggle up close; therefore, my dream is not merely to become wealthy, but to secure a future for my family's coming generations that is safe, prosperous and filled with the fulfillment of dreams."

Galway comes to the rescue during tough times

Addressing women, Bindu says, "Stop paying attention to what the world says. When a household faces financial hardship, no neighbor comes forward to provide food; only Galway comes to the rescue. Therefore, the decision must be yours. My experience tells me that, compared to the outside world, this business is far safer and more dignified for women. If a girl from a small village in Azamgarh can earn around 1 lakh a month today, then you can too. Just place unwavering faith in your upline and the system."

Galway Nutriflow Calcium

BUILD STRONG BONES FOR A HEALTHY AND ACTIVE LIFE

We take great care of our heart, brain, and overall fitness, but often ignore the real foundation of our body, our bones. Most people start paying attention to bone health only when pain, weakness, or stiffness begins to affect their daily life.

Today, India is facing a silent bone health crisis. According to the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) and various scientific studies conducted on recent years, 70–90% of Indians are deficient in Vitamin D, while nearly every second Indian woman and a large number of men suffer from calcium deficiency. A study published in the Indian Journal of Orthopedics also reported that around 50% of Indian adults have osteopenia (early-stage bone loss), while nearly 20% suffer from osteoporosis.

Changing lifestyles, long sitting hours, lack of sunlight, unhealthy eating habits, junk food, and poor nutrition have significantly increased bone-related problems. Keeping these growing concerns in mind, Galway has introduced Galway Nutriflow Calcium.

Galway Nutriflow Calcium

Many people believe that calcium alone is enough to build strong bones. However, the truth is that calcium can deliver its full benefits only when it is supported by other essential nutrients. This is the concept behind Galway Nutriflow Calcium.

It is a well-balanced formula containing Calcium Citrate Malate, Vitamin D3, Vitamin K2-7, Magnesium, Zinc, Vitamin B12, Alfalfa, Guggul, and Cissus, a combination of essential nutrients and herbal ingredients that work together to support overall bone health. Vitamin D3 helps improve calcium absorption, while Vitamin K2-7 supports the proper distribution of calcium in the body so that it reaches the bones where it is needed most. Magnesium helps maintain normal muscle, nerve, and bone function, whereas Zinc supports a healthy immune system.

The formula also contains Vitamin B12, which is essential for healthy blood cells and the nervous system. Cissus has traditionally been used to support bone strength and recovery, while Alfalfa and Guggul have long been valued in Ayurveda for supporting overall health and metabolism. With regular use, this advanced formula may help maintain healthy bones, teeth, and muscles. It is especially beneficial for women, older adults, people with limited sun exposure, and those who want to maintain an active and energetic lifestyle.

Strong Bones Are the Foundation of Good Health

Bones and joints do not become weak overnight. They gradually lose strength due to years of poor nutrition, lack of physical activity, and unhealthy lifestyle habits. That is why it is important to ensure proper nutrition, regular exercise, adequate sunlight, and a balanced lifestyle before problems begin.

We work hard every day to achieve our dreams, build our careers, and take care of our families. But the true strength behind all these achievements is a healthy body. Strong bones not only keep us active but also improve our overall quality of life.
